

MOUNT HOLYOKE

The Department of German Studies
presents:

Edeltraut P. Barrett Memorial Lecture

Entangled Histories & Lost Memories: Jews and Allies in Occupied Germany

Atina Grossmann

Atina Grossmann teaches Modern European and German History, and women's and gender studies at The Cooper Union. Her publications include numerous books and articles on gender, modernity, war, and genocide, and German and Jewish memory in 20th century Germany. Her publications include Reforming Sex: The German Movement for Birth Control and Abortion Reform 1920-1950 (1995), co-edited collections: When Biology Became Destiny: Women in Weimar and Nazi Germany (1984), and Crimes of War: Guilt and Denial in the 20th Century (2002), and numerous articles on gender, modernity, war and genocide, and German and Jewish memory in twentieth century Germany. Her new book, Jews, Germans, and Allies: Close Encounters in Occupied Germany (2007) won the Fraenkel Prize in Contemporary History from the Wiener Library, London.

Thursday
April 3, 2008
4:15 p.m.
Dwight Hall 101
Mount Holyoke College

Refreshments following lecture

Books provided by co-sponsor, Odyssey Bookshop

Co-sponsors: Jewish Studies and European Studies Programs; Department of History at MHC and Smith College; Five College Faculty Seminar in German Studies.