ISIS Main Menu

ISIS serves as a secure resource for the College community, allowing many to reach key College academic and administrative records from "wherever, whenever" (well except 4-6am)!

Prospective students, newly admitted and current students, and faculty use ISIS to retrieve and update data in applicant, student, and course records, as appropriate to their roles. Anyone (with or without College affiliation) can use ISIS to view our course offerings (class schedule) for the current term or any upcoming term for which a class schedule has been prepared.

To begin using ISIS,

- If you are a prospective, new or current student or a faculty member, click on the "Log In" tab on top of the black bar above and then the appropriate link on the bottom left.
- Otherwise, click on "Search for Classes" in the black bar above to view the class schedule.

Links to related resources are at left, including a "Using ISIS" link to access "how to" instructions.

The Search for Classes screen offers many search criteria options including days of the week, start and end times, and course types.

Note: ISIS defaults the Term criteria at the top of the page to whatever term is most likely to be of interest. But you may well need to change the term to access the courses you are looking for – for J-term courses, for example.

Note also that the Term criteria will reset itself to the default term every time you return to this search page, so you will need to override that default whenever you want to look at courses for a different term.

Enter any and all search criteria desired and then click on the Submit button at the bottom of the page. Two search criteria are required, one of them being the “Term”. A list of courses that fit the search criteria will be returned to you in just a few seconds.

PER-I -- If a “Y” is displayed, this course requires students to get the permission of the instructor to register for the class. Students may email requests for permission to the instructor, by clicking on the meeting times column to see a page of course information which includes the instructor’s email address. If permission is granted, the instructor is to write directly to the Office of the Registrar. The office will record the permission for each student. The permission will show on the student’s “Approvals and Holds” ISIS screen. Once the permission is recorded, it is the student’s responsibility to register herself into the course before the Add deadline.

- A Cross-listed course is a course that is offered under a few different departments ,for instance Cellular Metabolism is offered through the Biology, Chemistry and Biochemistry departments. You may register for a cross-listed course through any of the departments.
- Prerequisites are courses that must be completed prior to registration for this course. They also include course limitations such as advanced class standing.
- Corequisites are courses that you are required to register for in addition to the course you are looking at. This includes labs for natural science courses.
- Additional Comments are utilized by departments to provide more important information about a course.
