The Italian major seeks to foster linguistic fluency and appreciation of the multifaceted culture of the Italian people. In addition to acquiring advanced oral and written proficiency in the Italian language, majors will have the opportunity to access Italy's rich literary and cultural heritage through cinema, literature, music, art, the Web. Besides selecting courses offered at Mount Holyoke and in the more extended Five College community, students are encouraged to investigate the many study abroad options available to them in such culturally diverse cities as Bologna, Florence, and Padova. A major in Italian language and culture can lead to a variety of national and international careers, from foreign service to fashion marketing, from international banking and trade to film, from a career in nonprofits to teaching.

Mount Holyoke's system of foreign fellows in residence offers students the opportunity to live and study with Italian women who work with the department to provide a living link to Italy and its culture. The weekly Italian table provides a comfortable environment for spontaneous expression and cultural exchange, and the ongoing extracurricular activities of the Italian club, lectures, and films round out the multifaceted learning experience at MHC.

Teacher Licensure

Students interested in pursuing licensure in the field of Italian can combine their course work in Italian with a minor in education. In some instances course work in the major coincides with course work required for licensure; in other cases, it does not. For specific course requirements for licensure within the major of Italian, please consult your advisor or the chair of the Department of Classics and Italian. For information about the requirements for the minor in education, please consult "Teacher Licensure" in the Other Degree and Certificate Programs chapter and Professor Lawrence in the psychology and education department. Licensure also requires a formal application as well as passing scores on the Massachusetts Test of Educator Licensure (MTEL) in both the literacy component and the subject matter component. Copies of the test objectives for the MTEL are available in the Department of Classics and Italian and in the Department of Psychology and Education. Licensure application information and materials are available in the Department of Psychology and Education.

Guidelines for New Students

All courses satisfy distribution requirements unless otherwise indicated.

Courses are normally conducted in Italian. Courses offered in translation are listed at the end of the Italian course descriptions.

Students with no previous training in Italian should elect 101-102, Elementary Italian. Those who have a superior aptitude for language may elect 103, Intensive Elementary Italian, in the spring semester.

Students with two years of high school study should elect 201f, Intermediate Italian. Students whose proficiency in the Italian language is superior and who wish to study literature should elect 221, A Journey through Italy, in the fall semester. Students who are unsure about their level should contact Professor Frau for a proficiency test.

Students contemplating a junior year in Italy should elect an Italian course in the first semester of their first year, because all junior-year programs in Italy require two years of Italian.

Course Offerings

101f Elementary Italian

227f Florence and the Making of the Renaissance

(Taught in English) Michelangelo's Poems, Da Vinci's Notebooks, Machiavelli's Prince. These are only some of the many windows into the extraordinary genius that was the Renaissance. In these works by Florentine writers, artists, and thinkers, man placed himself at the very center of the universe and claimed the right to decide his own destiny. This course will engage with some of the greatest achievements of the Renaissance experiment, giving special importance to the ways through which—from literature, to the visual arts, to architecture and political science—Florence consciously pursued a mythical status to seal its own supremacy.

Meets Humanities I-A requirement

F. Naitana

Taught in English. Students who wish to take this course as 300-level Italian should contact Professor Naitana.; 4 credits

301 Eros, Beauty, and the Pursuit of Happiness

This course will focus on a characteristic element of the Western literary tradition: its inexhaustible fascination with Eros. Students will examine the most complex and enduring ideas about love and sexuality, as well as how they interweave with various conceptions of beauty and theories of happiness. Readings include works of poetry and fiction from Classical antiquity to the Italian Renaissance.

Meets Humanities I-A requirement

F. Naitana

Prereq. Italian 221; Conducted in Italian; 4 credits

312 Eia Eia Alalà: Italian Authors and Fascism

This course explores some aspects of twentieth-century Italian culture in relation to Mussolini's dictatorship. From futurism to the end of World War II, we will follow the development of fascism with some of the authors who lived through it and who narrated their experience. From Pavese to Ginzburg, from Morante to Primo Levi, from Bassani to Carlo Levi, we will discuss literary trends, architecture, and visual arts of the “Ventennio.”

320s Redefining the Cosmos: Voyages to the New World in the Italian Renaissance

The Renaissance has long been understood as the very laboratory of modernity. While revolutionary ideas about art, politics, and science took shape, Europe faced an extraordinary challenge: how to integrate into “the Renaissance experiment” the new experience opened by the voyages to the New World. In Italy, this challenge produced a heterogeneous body of literature—epic poems, popular cantari, travelogues—which represents at once a historical account of the “discoveries” and ethnographic exploration with an incursion into the fantastic. Pulci, Columbus, and Vespucci lure us into unexplored territory, where science, poetry, and history merge in an unparalleled metaphor for humanism.

F. Naitana

Prereq. Italian 221; conducted in Italian; 4 credits

350f Nouvelle e storielle/Novellas and Tales

From Boccaccio to Calvino, Italian writers experimented with the difficult art of the short story. This course will explore the universe of the short story in modern Italy, with special attention to the phenomenon of the literary magazine, which for the first time offered women writers a small but solid platform to launch their careers. Readings will include: DeAmicis, Neera, Marchesa Colombi, Serao, Pirandello, Ginzburg, Buzzati, Pavese, Landolfi, and Calvino.

361s Seminar in Romance Languages and Cultures: Topic: The Mind of the Traveler: Journeys, Expeditions, Tours

This interdisciplinary seminar will focus on a comparative study of Romance languages or literatures. Topics will vary from semester to semester. Seminar discussions will be conducted in English, but students wishing to obtain language credit are expected to read works in at least one original language. Papers will be written in either English or the Romance language of the student’s choice. (Taught in English; Same as Spanish 360, Romance Language 375, French 321) Travel literature has always been a precious source for the study of culture, politics, arts and, last but not least, people. From Tacitus to Marco Polo, from Stendhal to Camilo Jose Cela, we will read and discuss authors who traveled for political, personal, and recreational reasons. We will also pay special attention to tales of emigration and immigration in the third millennium.

Meets either language requirement or Humanities I-A requirement
