HONORARY DEGREE RECIPIENTS

Nancy Pelosi, Doctor of Laws

Nancy Pelosi is the Democratic leader of the U.S. House of Representatives for the 115th Congress. From 2007 to 2011, Pelosi served as speaker of the House, the first woman to do so in American history. She was inducted into the National Women's Hall of Fame in 2013.

Working in partnership with then President Obama, Pelosi led House passage of the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act, legislation to establish a patients' bill of rights and the Affordable Care Act. Speaker Pelosi led Congress in passing Wall Street reforms, the Student Aid and Fiscal Responsibility Act, the Lilly Ledbetter Fair Pay Act to fight pay discrimination, legislation to provide health care for 11 million American children, national service legislation and hate crimes legislation.

In 2010 Pelosi led Congress in passing child nutrition and food safety legislation as well as repealing the "Don't Ask, Don't Tell" policy prohibiting gays and lesbians from serving openly in the military. She has made energy security her flagship issue, enacting comprehensive legislation in 2007 that raised vehicle efficiency standards for the first time in 32 years and making a historic commitment to American homegrown biofuels. Under Speaker Pelosi, the House passed landmark ethics reform legislation. Pelosi graduated from Trinity College (now Trinity Washington University), a women's college in Washington, D.C.

Shirley J. Wilcher '73, Doctor of Laws

Shirley J. Wilcher '73 is a leading authority on equal opportunity and diversity policy. After graduating cum laude from Mount Holyoke, Wilcher earned a master's degree at The New School and a law degree from Harvard Law School. Wilcher became staff attorney for the National Women's Law Center in Washington, D.C., and later moved to Capitol Hill as associate counsel for civil rights for the House Committee on Education and Labor. There, she was responsible for legislation and oversight of matters, including Title IX, portions of the Civil Rights Act, and other laws relating to equal employment opportunity and labor standards. She served as the principal staff person on major investigations of the civil rights enforcement activities of several federal programs and departments.

During the Clinton administration, Wilcher served for nearly seven years as deputy assistant secretary for the Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs in the Department of Labor. In this role, she directed a federal program that emphasized the elimination of systemic barriers to equal employment opportunity, the glass ceiling and inequities in corporate compensation systems, testifying before both House and Senate labor committees.

Following her service in the Clinton administration, Wilcher served as director of Americans for a Fair Chance, a consortium of six civil rights legal organizations formed to provide educational resources on affirmative action. She has been a recipient of the NAACP's Benjamin Hooks Keeper of the Flame Award, the Rosa Parks Award from the American Association for Access Equity and Diversity, and the prestigious Drum Major for Justice Award. Currently, Wilcher is executive director of the American Association for Access Equity and Diversity. She also is president and CEO of the Fund for Leadership, Equity, Access and Diversity, and president of Wilcher Global LLC, a diversity management consulting firm.

Sonia Nieto, Doctor of Humane Letters

Sonia Nieto is professor emerita of Language, Culture and Teaching in the College of Education, University of Massachusetts Amherst. She has devoted her professional life to issues surrounding diversity, equity and social justice in education. Her research has examined multicultural education, teacher education and the education of students of culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds, with a particular focus on Latinx (a gender neutral term often used in lieu of Latino or Latina) students. Her classic text, “Affirming Diversity: The Sociopolitical Context of Multicultural Education,” was selected by the Museum of Education as one of the 100 books that helped define the field of education in the 20th century. She has authored or edited 11 books, including a memoir, “Brooklyn Dreams: My Life in Public Education.”

Nieto has received numerous awards for her scholarly work, activism, teaching and advocacy, including eight honorary doctorates. Among them are the 2017 James R. Squire Award and the 2005 Outstanding Educator in the Language Arts Award, both presented by the National Council of Teachers of English; the 2013 Distinguished Service Medal from Teachers College, Columbia University, the highest award granted by that institution; the 2008 Social Justice in Education Award from the American Educational Research Association, and the 1998 Educator of the Year Award from the National Association for Multicultural Education. A member of the National Academy of Education, Nieto also is a fellow of the American Educational Research Association and a laureate of Kappa Delta Pi. She is currently working on a book with her daughter, Alicia López, who also is a teacher.

STUDENT SPEAKER

Aiza Amjad Malik '18

Aiza Amjad Malik '18 is a biochemistry major and anthropology minor from Pakistan. She has been a MoZone peer mentor; worked with the Office of the Dean of Students on diversity, equity and inclusion; was the codirector for Mount Holyoke's chapter of Scientista (women in STEM) during her last two years of college — with a short break while studying in Scotland at The University of Edinburgh — and served on the board of the Muslim Students' Association during her sophomore year. In her summers she has been involved in scientific research, first at Mount Holyoke and then at Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center. Malik has worked as a peer undergraduate mentor for physics and organic chemistry and as a Five College Urdu language tutor. She plans to work on issues of human health and wellness after she graduates.

ACADEMIC APPAREL

The history of academic apparel has its origins in medieval British universities, particularly the University of Oxford, where scholars wore hoods and gowns as their customary daily attire. Because of the close affiliation between the university and the church at that time, academic gowns resembled cassocks and elaborately worked clerical vestments. It is from these medieval garments that American academic dress derives.

Today, American academic attire reflects the level of an individual's degree and the institution granting that degree. Black is the standard color for gowns, and the three levels of degrees are distinguished mainly by sleeve style. A gown for a bachelor's degree is usually worn closed and has long, pointed sleeves. A master's degree gown is usually worn open and has oblong sleeves. The sleeves on a gown indicating a doctoral degree are large and bell-shaped and each sleeve has three bars. A fourth bar is worn by a college or university president. The length of the hood and its velvet border indicates the level of degree attained, the color of its lining identifies the institution conferring the degree, and the color of the velvet trim indicates the field of learning. Some institutions have adopted solid-color gowns that incorporate their college or university colors, such as Harvard's crimson or Princeton's orange. The president of Mount Holyoke College wears a custom-made gown in the College's colors.

Many countries wear similar gowns. Chinese students might wear a "qipao" or "xue shi fu," forms of formal attire worn to important events. Vietnamese women graduating from college are likely to wear a white "ao die," described as a silken robe over trousers. Japanese women might wear a "hakama," formal attire that is associated with learnedness. Thai students might wear the traditional "suea khruai" ceremonial attire. In Ghana, graduates wear stoles made of kente cloth, a form of striped weaving originating from the Akan people of South Ghana, over their gowns.

ALMA MATER

Music: Gladys Pratt, Class of 1914

Text: Gertrude Brady Murphy, Class of 1914

Oh Mount Holyoke we pay thee devotion,
In the fervor of youth that is strong,
The courage of right is thy garland,
Our lives, Alma Mater, thy song.
So from east and from west now we gather,
And united in firm love to thee,
All years are as one, and their loyal pledge,
Mount Holyoke forever shall be,
Mount Holyoke forever shall be.

Through the heart of a new day's endeavor,
Breathes the life of the old days that live,
For what thou hast given we honor,
But we love thee for what we can give.
So when soft in a whisper thou callest,
For the treasures unlocked by thy key,
Our achievements, our hopes and our glorious faith
Shall answer, Mount Holyoke, to thee,
Shall answer, Mount Holyoke, to thee.
